DISCLAIMER AND DISCLOSURES FOR RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Introduction

These disclosures and disclaimers form an integral part of all research reports and investment recommendations prepared, published or distributed by Fearnley Securities AS ("Recommendations").

The publication or report originates from Fearnley Securities AS, reg. no. 945 757 647. Fearnley Securities AS is licensed and supervised by the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway.

Fearnley Securities AS complies with the standards for Recommendations issued by the Norwegian Securities Markets Association and the Norwegian Society of Financial Analysts.

Matters relating to Recommendations shall be governed by the laws of Norway and be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of Oslo District Court. The terms of use and disclaimers set forth herein are, by reference in the Recommendation, deemed to be acknowledged and accepted by any person receiving the Recommendation.

2. Equity Recommendations

Basis and Methods for Assessment

Recommendations regarding shares and share-related instruments ("Equities") are based on price targets fixed with different valuation methods that may include analysis of earnings multiples (absolute and relative), valuation of a company using DCF (discounted cash flow) calculations and by carrying out net asset value (NAV) assessments. Price targets are changed when earnings and cash flow forecasts are changed. They may also be changed when the underlying value of the assets of the issuer that is the subject of the Recommendation (the "Recommendation Subject") changes or when factors impacting the required rate of return change. Unless otherwise stated, our recommendations have a twelve-month horizon.

Definitions of Equity Ratings

Buy:	When price target is more than 10% above market price.
Hold:	When the price target is within 10% above or below the market price, or where other considerations mean that we do not see a compelling investment case.
Sell:	When target price is 10% or more below market price.

Risk Information

Investments in financial instruments involve risk. Information, interpretations and assessments may be subject to uncertainty, and no assurance can be given that a Recommendation, forward-looking statement or expectation will prove correct. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. Estimates of future performance are based on assumptions that may not be realised. Investors in individual shares may lose all or part of their investment.

High risk:	The instrument is expected to be more volatile than the Oslo Børs Benchmark Index (OSEBX).

Medium risk: The instrument is expected to exhibit broadly similar volatility to the OSEBX.

Low risk: The instrument is expected to be less volatile than the OSEBX.

Fearnley Securities AS assesses the risk of an investment relative to the OSEBX. The assessment considers the individual company's business risk, operational leverage, financial risk and expected share-price volatility.

Fearnley Securities AS primarily provides equity research coverage of companies within cyclical sectors including Industrials, Oil & Gas, Oil Services, Renewables and Shipping. Given the cyclical nature of these industries, the covered companies are expected to exhibit higher share price volatility than the broader equity market over time.

3. Fixed Income Recommendations

Basis and Methods for Assessment

Recommendations for bonds and other fixed income instruments are based on Fearnley Securities AS' own assessment of credit risk (the creditworthiness of a particular Recommendation Subject or instrument as of a given date), unless otherwise mentioned, relative to risk premium (risk premium inherent in yield relative to investment amount). All descriptions of instrument, corporate structures and provisions contained in a loan agreement or similar transaction documents are obtained from sources which Fearnley Securities AS believes to be reliable, but Fearnley Securities AS does not represent or warrant their accuracy. Investors should review the relevant loan agreement, bond terms, offering memorandum or other applicable transaction documentation prior to investing in any bonds and not base an investment decision solely on information contained in this publication or report.

Fearnley Securities AS mainly analyses fixed income instruments in the high yield segment where the credit risk is regarded as high. This includes rated instruments with ratings below BBB (S&P) or Baa3 (Moody's) (below "investment grade") where Fearnley Securities AS will quote the ratings to the extent these are known to Fearnley Securities AS.

Definitions of Fixed Income Ratings

- Buy: The risk premium is considered as favourable relative to credit risk
- Hold: The risk premium is considered as acceptable relative to credit risk
- Sell: The risk premium is considered as unacceptable relative to credit risk

Unless otherwise stated, fixed income Recommendations have no fixed validity period and may be changed or withdrawn at any time.
